BASIC GUIDELINES FOR ASSIGNING CLASSIFICATIONS

Generally, it is the business of the employer that is classified, not the separate employments, occupations or operations within the business. The governing classification at a specific job or location is the classification, other than a standard exception classification, that produces the greatest amount of payroll.

(These guidelines are intended to be used only for reporting payroll to the Va. Workers' Compensation Commission. Instructions for any other workers' compensation classification program may be obtained from NCCI.)

EXPLANATION OF CLASSIFICATIONS

1. Basic Classifications - All classifications are basic classifications other than the standard exception classifications. Basic classifications describe the business of an employer, such as:

Business	Classifications
Manufacture of a Product	Furniture Mfg.
A process	Engraving
A General Type or Character Of Business	Hardware Store
A Service	Package Delivery

2. Standard Exception Classifications - Employees within the definition of a standard exception classification are not included in a basic classification unless the basic classification specifically includes those employees. The standard exception classifications are defined below:
 - a. Clerical Office Employees-Code 8810 - This classification applies only to employees who work in areas physically separated from other operations by structural partitions and in which work of clerical office employees as defined in this rule is performed exclusively. If such an employee has any other duty, the total payroll of that employee shall be assigned to the highest rated classification of operations to which the employee is exposed.
 - b. Drivers, Chauffeurs and Their Helpers-Code 7380 - employees engaged in such duties on or in connection with a vehicle. This classification includes garage employees and employees using bicycles in their operations.
 - c. Salesperson, Collectors or Messengers-Outside-Code 8742 - are employees engaged in such duties away from the employer's premises. Not for employees who deliver merchandise. Employees who deliver merchandise shall be assigned to the classification applicable in that risk to drivers even though they also collect or sell.

3. General Inclusions - Some operations appear to be separate businesses, but they are included within the scope of all classifications other than the standard exception classifications. These operations are called general inclusions and are:
 - a. Commissaries and restaurants for the company's employees. To be assigned to a separate classification if conducted in connection with construction, erection, lumbering or mining operations.
 - b. Manufacture of containers such as bags, barrels, bottles, boxes, cans, cartons or packing cases by the employer for use in the operations of the insured.
 - c. Hospitals or medical facilities operated by the insured for its employees.
 - d. Maintenance or repair of the insured's bldgs. or equipment by the insured's employees.
 - e. Printing or lithographing by the insured on its own products.

A general inclusion operation shall be separately classified only if:

 - Such operation constitutes a separate and distinct business of the insured ,or
 - It is specifically excluded by the classification wording, or

-The principal business is described by a standard exception classification.

4. General Exclusions - Some operations in a business are so unusual that they are excluded from basic classifications. They are classified separately unless specifically included in the basic classification wording. These are:
- Aircraft operation - All operations of the flying and ground crews. (The number of passenger seats is to be reported in addition to any other appropriate classifications.)
 - New construction or alterations by the insured's employees.
 - Stevedoring, including tallying and checking incidental to stevedoring.
 - Sawmill operations - sawing logs into lumber by equipment such as circular carriage or band carriage saws, including operations incidental to the sawmill.
 - Employer operated day care service.

ASSIGNMENT OF CLASSIFICATIONS

- Object of Classification Procedure
The object of the classification procedure is to assign the one basic classification which best describes the business of the employer within a state. Subject to certain exceptions described in this rule, each classification includes all the various types of labor found in a business. It is the business which is classified, not the individual employments, occupations or operations within a business. Additional classifications shall be assigned as provided below.
- Classification of Separate Legal Entities
Each separate legal entity insured under one certificate shall be assigned to the basic classification which describes its entire business within a state.
- Business Not Described by a Manual Classification
If there is no classification which describes the business, the classification which most closely describes the business shall be assigned.
- Assignment of Additional Basic Classifications
If a classification requires operations or employees to be separately rated or if an employer operates a secondary business within a state, an additional basic classification may be assigned if the following conditions are met.
 - The insured's business is described by a basic classification that requires certain operations to be separately rated.
 - The insured engages in construction or erection operations, farm operations, repair operations, or operates a mercantile business.
 - The insured operates more than one business in a state.
- Business Described by a Standard Exception Classification
If the principal business is described by a standard exception classification, those employees not included in the definition for the standard exception classification will be assigned to the separate basic classification that most closely describes their operations.
- Construction or Erection Operations
Each distinct type of operation at a job or location will be assigned to the classification that specifically describes such operation as long as separate payroll records are maintained for each operation. Any operation where separate payroll records are not maintained will be assigned to the highest rated classification that applies to the job or location where the operation is performed. A separate classification will not be assigned to any operation that is within the scope of another classification assigned to such a job or location.

Notes: 1 - The law requires that the total salaries, wages and/or other remuneration paid or due employees from January 1st to December 31st, be reported. EXCEPTION: The Executive Officers of a corporation are the President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer and other Executive Officers elected or appointed in accordance with the charter and by-laws of such corporation. With respect to these officers, the remuneration is limited to a minimum of $150.00 per week and a maximum of $500.00 per week.
2 - The extra remuneration paid for overtime may be deducted; e.g. if time and a half is paid for overtime, the half may be deducted.
3 - If you are reporting payroll for Classification Code 7421-Flying Crew you must also report the number of passenger seats using Classification Code 0088.

Total - Enter the total payroll for the company.

Notarization - All reports must be notarized and the employer's Federal Identification Number given.
